Playing weak two-bids, North opened two clubs to describe either a traditional game-forcing hand in a suit or a strong balanced hand. Opener's two-no-trump rebid would promise a balanced 22-24 HCP; three no-trump would promise 25-26 HCP. However, North saw more potential in his holding than mere point count. His wealth of controls and solid winners induced him to fib about a genuine club suit. And after his three-club rebid, he was elated to hear partner bid diamonds. A five no-trump Grand Slam Force followed, and South bid six diamonds, holding only one of the top three diamond honors. This proved to be the top spot. Joe Coimintment of Dallas played well to justify the bidding. He won dummy's heart ace and cashed the ace and king of diamonds. When both followed, Joe discarded two hearts on dummy's clubs and played spades. West would score his trump queen, but it was the only trick for his side. Bidding and making the diamond slam earned a score of 98 percent. Those who settled for a no-trump game and made it earned an above-average score; those who stretched to the slam at no-trump earned bottom scores.
